The End The Beginning

Saturday, May 23rd is the Graduation service for the Class of 2026 at N.E.W. Lutheran High School. By Noon that day, or 1:00 if the graduation speeches go really long, it will be THE END of high school for our graduates. High school is over, done, in the bag, finished, the show has concluded, the final words spoken, the curtain will fall. But as high school comes to an end for each Senior, it is also THE BEGINNING.

These Alumni now start a brand new chapter in their lives. Maybe it is more schooling in College or Tech School, or the Military while others will begin their work careers. Some will become parents sooner than others. They will make new friends and discover new people in the world. They will experience joys and sorrows, aches and pains, health and sickness, fun and drudgery. I hope all of them will share their Christian faith with as many people as possible.

It is strange to think about the end and then the beginning. We might be more apt to think of the beginning and then the end. We begin a book that brings us to an exciting ending. We begin watching a new series on Amazon Prime thinking we have a good two weeks worth of entertainment and then realize at 2:00 a.m. that we just watched the entire season. Our alarm clock goes off and begins a new day that will be tough to make it through considering we binged watched all of those episodes last night. That day might end after four cups of coffee, three cans of Mountain Dew and much yawning and dozing.

As I think about beginning and ending and ending and beginning, I want to remind everyone of the end of Jesus' life. Jesus suffered, was crucified and died. THE END. But it was not the end! It was THE BEGINNING! Through that end and that resurrection, Jesus won for us eternal life! Now our spiritual END is no longer determined by our sin.

We are part of the ultimate beginning where we have been washed clean through baptism and we live as part of Christ's eternal kingdom, on earth now, and forever with him in heaven! The ultimate BEGINNING!

To God be the Glory!
